The English liberal arts curriculum is designed to provide intensive study in literature, language, and writing. The department also offers a professional track in secondary education, and one in journalism and professional writing as well as minors in English and journalism/professional writing. Any of these programs can be meaningfully combined with majors or minors in such fields as history, psychology, modern languages, philosophy, elementary or early childhood education, and education of the deaf and hard of hearing. The English program offers a broad range of courses in literature, language, film, and writing, allowing students to design programs appropriate to their goals and interests. The English major is excellent preparation for careers in journalism, public relations, law, management, teaching, or any occupation that requires verbal skills. It is also one of the best preparations for graduate and professional schools, and many of our students go on to advanced study at universities across the country.

Program Entrance, Retention, and Exit Standards

Every major program at the College has set standards for allowing students to remain in that program, to transfer within the College from one program to another, and to graduate from a program. The following are the standards for English programs. Minimum grades are noted in parentheses.

For students with curriculum codes ENGA and ENGT:

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: ENGL/LIT 201 Approaches to Literature (C).
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards in these “foundation courses”: ENGL/LIT 201 Approaches to Literature (C).
- Graduation requirements: A grade of C– or better in all English Department courses.

For students with curriculum code ENGB:

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: ENGL 208/Introduction to Journalism (C).
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards in these “foundation courses”: ENGL 208/Introduction to Journalism (C).
- Graduation requirements: A grade of C– or better in all English Department courses.

English Major: Teaching (ENGT)
Admission to the Junior Professional Experience requires an overall cumulative average of 2.50. Candidates for a teacher-education certificate must have a 2.75 cumulative grade point average to successfully complete their teacher-education program. They also must meet the state hygiene/physiology requirement, and pass the appropriate Praxis examination before the New Jersey State Department of Education will issue the appropriate certificate. Teacher-education candidates will receive a “certificate of eligibility with advanced standing” which requires a candidate to be provisionally certified for his or her first year of teaching. After one year of successful teaching, the candidate is eligible for a permanent certificate. The teacher candidate will also have to pay a fee during his or her first year of teaching.

Secondary teaching majors (ENGT) must complete the major requirements for English liberal arts. They are required to complete 128 credits, 28 of which must be the following required professional courses.

Students in elementary education/English and early childhood education/English must complete the requirements for English liberal arts.
Students should consult with their advisers in both departments in planning their academic program. These plans should take into account requirements for the major, general education, professional courses, and state certification.

Departmental Honors in English
Six (6) credits. ENGL 477/Honors in English
Senior Honors Research Project, to be completed under the supervision of a faculty adviser. The departmental honors committee will approve project proposals and evaluate the completed work in conjunction with the faculty adviser. For departmental honors, a minimum grade of B is required. The completed project will be presented to the entire English department.

Academic Advisement in English
Each student must understand departmental advisement procedures. Students will be assigned to academic advisers by the departmental advisement coordinator. Advisers will publicize the names of students whom they are advising and the times when they are available for conferences, but the student is responsible for taking the initiative to arrange conferences with the adviser each semester during the registration period and whenever academic questions arise. The purposes of these conferences are to assure that: 1) the student is taking the appropriate courses to meet The College’s academic requirements; 2) the student is aware of and pursuing those courses best suited to his or her career goals; 3) the student will have a source of attentive, mature advice in handling whatever academic difficulties he or she may be encountering; and 4) the student will have a sympathetic ear for other problems which may be affecting his or her academic performance. Advisers will maintain files on each advisee, containing control sheets, transcripts, test scores, or whatever personal data are made available to the adviser. Because the members of the English department believe that proper advisement is vital to the academic well-being of majors, a student must be formally admitted into the English major before attempting the final 21 major credits.
WRI 102/Academic Writing
4 cr.
(every semester)
replaces RHET 101 and 102
Academic Writing offers students the opportunity to develop, advance, and practice skills in the production of academic prose. Within a framework of sophisticated readings, highly coordinated writing workshops, and instructor feedback, students will practice the modes of writing necessary to succeed in college. Students will develop their skills in the recognition of and composition of arguments, in critical thinking and reading, in text production, and in the use of information technologies. Students will cultivate habits of effective and ethical research and practice conventions of documentation appropriate to their own academic discipline or those of the instructor. Topical readings and textbooks may vary among sections; however, all instruction will take its shape from the same set of curricular guidelines.

LIT 201/Approaches to Literature
4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 201
An introduction to the various approaches and disciplines employed by professional literary critics and scholars to enhance their appreciation, understanding, and evaluation of literary works.

LNG 201/Introduction to the English Language
4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
An introductory linguistics course intended for students who have had no previous exposure to systematic language study. Students will explore the various ways that scholars have approached language, from traditional historical study to the latest research in neurolinguistics. The course is organized into three main sections, with two units each. The first will address the questions, “What exactly is a language, and what makes English unique?” The second section of the course will examine the grammatical structures of the English language (syntax), its system of sounds (phonology), and the ways that languages instill words with meaning (morphology, semantics). The final unit will address issues of current interest in linguistics: language variation (dialects and styles), current attitudes about English dialects, and recent debates concerning the biological components of language. (LNG 201 counts in the current English major for the LNG/ENGL 202 requirement.)

LNG 202/Structure and History of the English Language
4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
An introduction to both the structure and development of English as a spoken but more especially as a written language. Begins with basic linguistic concepts, and continues by examining the place of English within the Indo-European language group to which it belongs. Looks at the structures of Old English [OE] (600-1100 AD), of Middle English [ME] (1100-1500), of Early Modern English [EModE] (1500-1750) and Present-Day English [PDE] (1750-present). Since this course is for English majors and minors, we will try to connect the materials we are covering to topics of more general interest to English students, such as literary analysis and written English. This course will also help those who plan to teach the structure of English grammar to elementary and secondary students.

WRI 206/Creative Writing
4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 206
Students write and revise their own work, improving their craft through writing exercises and by discussing the writing of both published writers and their classmates. The primary focus is on fiction and poetry.

ENGL 207/Advanced Writing
3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Approaches to writing nonfiction with particular emphasis on the analysis and development of style in the personal essay.

JPW/ENGL 208/Introduction to Journalism
4/3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 208
Experience in news reporting and writing, and explanation of the ideals of journalism.

LNG 211/Understanding English Grammar
4 cr.
(3 class hours)
This course does not teach basic writing skills, the rules of usage, or editorial conventions. Instead, the course focuses on the linguistic structure of Present-Day English, principally the syntax (word order and sentence structure) of Present-Day English. Moreover, the course addresses some of the current controversies over usage, the status of dialects, and “good English.” (LNG 211 counts in the current English major for LNG/ENGL 202 requirement.)

LIT 216/Global Women Writers 4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 316
Perspectives on the World: Gender, Literature, Non-Western
This course looks at texts by women writing in non-Western cultures and genres as a way of examining the nature and role of women in systems of colonization and imperialism. Analysis of novels and essays will focus on the problems and possibilities of indigenous, colonized, and post-Colonial women writing within these systems.

LIT 217/Issues in Multicultural Literature 4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 237
An exploration of how literary texts within the evolving field of multicultural studies challenge simple notions of universality and canonicity through approaches to key issues in multicultural literature. Special attention to debates over aesthetic value, literary historiography, and disciplinary politics. Rotating course content.

ENGL 221/Understanding Poetry 3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(annually)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature
Students will learn to understand and appreciate poetry while analyzing the expressive use of figurative language, rhythm, voice, and sound. The poetry and poets studied cover a broad historical, geographical, and cultural spectrum.

ENGL 222/Short Story 3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature
Critical examination of the short story as a type of literature. Study of stories by such authors as Melville, Poe, Joyce, Kafka, Hemingway, Faulkner, Roth, Updike, Hawthorne, and Chekhov.

ENGL 223/The Novel 3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature
Critical evaluation of the novel as a type of literature. Study of the elements of novels and categories within the genre.

ENGL 224/Autobiography 3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Western
Consideration of a wide variety of purposes and techniques that shape life stories. Focal themes include conversion narratives, coming-of-age narratives, illness or life-crisis narratives, representative voices, and life summaries. Autobiographers include Augustine, Rousseau, Montaigne, Frederick Douglass, Black Elk, Richard Rodriguez, Paul Monette, Annie Dillard, and Maya Angelou. Various theories of autobiography will also be discussed.

ENGL 225/Early African-American Literature 3 cr.
(Same as AFAM 321)
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
A survey of African American Literature from colonial times to World War II.

ENGL 226/Contemporary African-American Literature 3 cr.
(Same as AFAM 322)
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
A survey of African-American literature from World War II to the present.

ENGL 229/English Literature 1700 to the Present  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
A selected study of works of major English writers and their milieu between 1700 and the present.

LIT 231/Perspectives on World Literature to 1800  4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
same as CMP 231
replaces ENGL 217
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Western
Introduces students to selected literary traditions before 1800. The course will put readings into literary and historical context by focusing on a pivotal literary moment or text, selected by the instructor and analogous in function to the stationary foot of a geometric compass. Around this stationary foot or pivotal moment, the course will explore literary and historical relations – the textual “ancestors” and “progeny” that influenced or rewrote the pivotal text of the course, as well as the surrounding philological, social, and political contexts of the selected literary moment. The course will also draw upon at least two distinct cultures or traditions, at least one of which must be non-English-speaking.

LIT 232/Perspectives on World Literature Since 1800  4 cr.
(every semester)
same as CMP 232
replaces ENGL 218
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Western
Introduces students to selected literary traditions since 1800. The course will put readings into literary and historical context by focusing on a pivotal literary moment or text, selected by the instructor and analogous in function to the stationary foot of a geometric compass. Around this stationary foot or pivotal moment, the course will explore literary and historical relations – the textual “ancestors” and “progeny” that influenced or rewrote the pivotal text of the course, as well as the surrounding philological, social, and political contexts of the selected literary moment. The course will also draw upon at least two distinct cultures or traditions, at least one of which must be non-English-speaking.

LIT 233/World Drama  4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(annually)
replaces ENGL 220
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Western Immerses students in the study of plays from the classical to contemporary periods as literary texts. Readings, lecture, discussion, and papers also examine aspects of theatrical production, thus providing a broad background in the theory, history, structure, terminology, conventions, and subgenres of drama and theatre. Emphasis is on western drama but examples of nonwestern comedy and tragedy are included.

ENGL 233/Women Writers  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Gender.

ENGL 236/American Literature Since 1865  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
A survey of literature written in America since 1865, including authors such as Dickinson, Twain, Cather, Faulkner, Hughes, Ginsberg, Cisneros, and Hwang.
ENGL 240/ Cultural Representations of Gender  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Perspectives on the World: Literature, Non-Western, Gender
The course explores cultural variation in male and female characters in important novels of the past 50 years written in English or translated into English. The texts will be selected from works by men and women in Western and non-Western societies.

ENGL 246/ The Film  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: RHET 101 or WRI 102
Background and development of the motion picture, film technique and aesthetics; film criticism.

JPW 250/ Introduction to Professional Writing  4 cr.
(Same as IMM 140)
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 250
Introduces students to the reasoning, routines and rigors of writing for business and professional markets. Students will broaden their conceptual understanding of the relationships between journalism, public relations, and marketing while acquiring or improving proficiency in creating content for multimedia projects.

JPW 251/ Feature Writing  4 cr.
(Same as IMM 240)
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Prerequisite: JPW 208 or JPW 250
Combines the storytelling techniques of creative writing with the timeliness and facticity of hard new reporting. Students learn to craft stories for print, online and interactive media. The skills acquired in the practice of feature writing are in demand in journalism, public relations, advertising, publishing and other industries.

LIT 251/ British Literature to the Restoration  4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
replaces ENGL 228
In this course, students take a close look at specific literary techniques and genres, and at aspects of British culture, in selected examples of pre-1660 British literature. The course is designed to engage students in the analysis and interpretation of texts in their diverse historical, aesthetic, cultural, and theoretical contexts; and to lead to an understanding and appreciation of the development of literary traditions, cultural values, modes of thought, and uses of language.

LIT 288/ Contemporary Literature  4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every semester)
Surveys post 1960 poetry and fiction. Emphasis is placed on introducing students to the aesthetic range of contemporary literature. Students will read and discuss authors and poets who represent major developments in traditional and non-traditional aesthetics.

WRI 301/ Writing Communities  4 cr.
(3 class hours)
(every Fall)
Students engage with the campus, local, regional, and national literary communities. In addition to traditional reading and writing assignments, students organize a Visiting Writers Series, a Student Reading Series, and community projects. The assigned reading in the course will be the books by visiting authors, focusing on current literary trends.

WRI 304/ Poetry Workshop  4 cr.
(3 credit hours)
(every Fall)
Prerequisite: WRI/ENGL 206
Focuses on the analysis and practice of poetry. Students read contemporary published poetry, write and revise their own poetry, and provide oral and written critiques of their classmates' poetry. The course will operate primarily as a workshop.

ENGL 306/ Fiction Workshop  3 cr.
(3 class hours)
(occasionally)
Prerequisite: ENGL/WRI 206 or permission of instructor
Analysis, discussion, and practice in the writing of fiction. Students read published work by contemporary authors, write and revise their own stories, and provide oral and written peer critiques of their classmates’ work. The course will operate primarily as a workshop.
