College Honors Program

The College Honors Program provides a high level of challenge and stimulation to talented students who seek a broad educational experience. The program is designed to serve students in all majors in all schools of the college. Honors courses explore central themes in the development of civilization and the interrelations of world cultures. The courses meet liberal learning requirements, so honors students complete part of their requirements with courses exclusive to the Honors Program. A number of honors courses are cross-listed with upper-level departmental courses.

The College Honors Program is open to incoming students, transfer students, and currently matriculated students who meet the entrance requirements of the program. Graduates of the program receive special recognition on diplomas and transcripts.

Application Guidelines:

• Entering Students: combined SAT score of 1350 (Math and Verbal) or graduation in the top 5% of high school class.
• Transfer Students: 3.4 cumulative average.
• Matriculated Students: 3.4 cumulative average and 12 credits earned.

The Honors and Scholars Program Council considers each application individually, focusing on the high school program, honors application essay, involvement in activities, and two letters of recommendation. Admission to the Honors Program is highly competitive, with less than 10% of the entering class being accepted.

Prerequisite for all honors courses: Membership in the College Honors Program or permission of instructor.

Requirements to Complete the College Honors Program

• A student must complete five units (=20 credits) of Honors study. The five units may be earned through coursework, study abroad, or independent research.
• Of the five units, one must be in philosophy or religion and one must meet the College’s Global requirement. (No single course can be used to meet both of these requirements.)
• Departmental Honors projects can (upon approval by the Honors and Scholars Program Council) count toward the five units of Honors.
• Two of the five units can be earned through honors-by-contract study. Honors-by-contract allows a student to complete a traditional course for honors credit, when the student and professor together agree to a set of enhancements (in research or performance) that raise the demands placed on the student to the Honors level.
• Study abroad may count toward College Honors, when approved in advance by the Honors Coordinator.
COURSES

CHE 201H, 202H/Honors General Chemistry I, II

HON 349/Cities and Sanctuaries of the Ancient World

An exploration of the major cities and sanctuaries of the Greek world from their foundations through the end of Roman rule. The course will examine various topographical, political, and religious aspects that shaped the foundation, growth, and development of these important ancient places. Various media, particularly architecture and decorative sculptural programs, will be examined in context with regard to their cultural, historical, religious, political, and/or artistic value.

HON 352/Artistic Reincarnations: The Aesthetics of Adaptation

Examination of the adaptation of works of literature or other art forms to other literary genres or art forms. After discussion of a variety of types of adaptation (e.g., novel to play or film, scripture to play, epic poem to novel, illustrations of novel or play, music for film or ballet), students create their own adaptations to be discussed by the class, as well as research and analyze adaptations of their own choice on which they write a research paper and give a class presentation.

HON 355/Biomedical Ethics

Biomedical ethics is an area of research lying on the border between medicine, biology, philosophy, and law that deals with questions concerning the ethical and social implications of the use of biomedical technologies in clinical practice and medical research. Topics in contemporary bioethics include: patient autonomy vs. medical paternalism, confidentiality, termination or withholding of life-saving treatment, implications of new reproductive technologies, experimentation with human subjects, fetal tissue research, and just allocation in health care delivery. The course will also examine emerging issues such as eugenics, cloning, and genetic engineering. Emphasis will be placed on both the acquisition of theoretical and conceptual understanding, through course readings and lectures, and on the development of practical skills of moral reasoning and ethical decision making.

HON 370/Honors Topics

Study of varying topics, usually interdisciplinary, from appropriate historical, literary, philosophical, scientific, and/or theoretical perspectives. May be repeated when topic changes.

HON 375/This Year’s National Election

The course, which will be offered in the fall semester of even-numbered years to coincide with presidential and congressional elections, will place the unfolding campaign in historical context. Particular attention will be given to the role and function of political parties over time.
