

STANDARD FILE RESTORATION FOR BEAST ACCOUNTS

(READ CAREFULLY)

Periodically, users call into the Helpdesk stating that their beast prompt is not responding to normal commands or the prompt looks 'funny'. The following is a technique used by the Helpdesk to restore the original beast configuration settings.

In order to replace the standard configuration files in a UNIX home directory, type the following script when the following type symptoms are presented:

- User cannot run standard commands (pine and the like).
- User's prompt looks 'funny'.

To replace standard configuration files, run the following command at the beast prompt:

`/opt/local/packages/misc/fixfiles.pl`

If your problem still persists, please contact the Helpdesk at x2660.
