Department Statement

The history curriculum at The College of New Jersey is cross-cultural, transnational, and comparative. Students gain a global perspective.

Requirements for the Major (11 course units)

Eleven total course units are required for the major: four major core course units in HIS 210, 220, 230, 498; and seven course units at the 300 or 400 levels. These requirements apply to all History majors including those seeking teacher certification.

In order to develop a familiarity with different parts of the world and different moments in the past, students majoring in History must complete the following:

Major Core (4 course units)

HIS 210/World History I
HIS 220/World History II
HIS 230/The United States in World History
HIS 498/Senior Capstone Research Seminar

Major Options/Concentrations (7 course units)

Five regional courses at the 300/400 level in at least four of the following five regions:

- Europe (HIS 300-331 or 455, 498)
- South Asia or East Asia (HIS 333-340, or 455, 498)
- Middle East or Eurasia (HIS 332, 341-349, or 455, 498)
- Africa or Latin America (HIS 350-364, or 455, 498)
- North America or U.S. (HIS 365-386, or 455, 498)
- one course on pre-modern era, (HIS 300-315, 341, 351, or 455, 498)

Two Readings Seminars

HIS 455A
HIS 455B

Students may cover more than one requirement with a single course.

Students seeking certification to teach social studies at the secondary level are subject to additional professional requirements including a semester of practice teaching. See below History Major: Teacher Preparation.

Requirements for the Minor

Five course units, of which at least three must be at the 300 or 400 level, with distribution across at least two of the department’s five geographical categories.
Departmental Honors
Students who rank highly in their junior year are invited to undertake an honors thesis.

Program Entrance, Retention, and Exit Standards
Every major program at the College has set standards for allowing students to remain in that program, to transfer within the College from one program to another, and to graduate from a program. The following are the standards for history programs. Minimum grades are noted in parentheses:

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: HIS 210/220 World History I and II (C), and performance at GPA of 2.0 or above in History courses.
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards in these “foundation courses”: HIS 210/220, World History I and II (C).
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0, in history courses and overall, for students in History Liberal Arts (HISA). Students seeking secondary education certification (HIST) need a GPA of 2.75 overall.

Transfer Student Standards
Students transferring from other colleges who have completed two courses in Western Civilization or World History with a GPA in these courses of 3.5 or better will receive credit for those courses and waivers for HIS 210–220. Any additional transfer credit will be decided on a case-by-case basis using a 3.5 GPA standard.

History Major: Teacher Preparation (HIST)

Professional courses needed to earn certification to teach secondary social studies are taken during the second, third and fourth years of college. An overview of the entire secondary-level teacher preparation sequence for students can be found in the section of this bulletin for the Department of Education Administration and Secondary Education.

Students planning to teach at the middle or high school level should consult with their advisor in planning their academic program. These plans should take into account requirements for: the major, liberal learning, professional courses, and state certification. To be retained in the program, a student must earn at least a 2.5 cumulative grade point average before enrolling in the junior year education sequence. The student must establish a minimum 2.75 GPA in order to be allowed to student teach.

Candidates for a teacher-education certificate must have a 2.75 or higher cumulative grade point average to successfully complete their teacher education program. They also must meet the state hygiene/physiology requirement, and pass the appropriate Praxis examination before the New Jersey State Department of Education will issue the appropriate certificate. Teacher-education candidates will receive a “certificate of eligibility with advanced standing” which requires a candidate to be provisionally certified for his or her first year of teaching. After one year of successful teaching, the candidate is eligible for a permanent certificate.

COURSES

HIS 210/World History I
(fall semester)

An introduction to the history of human societies from prehistory to about 1500. Attention is given to the world’s major regions—Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas—and their different material conditions, cultures, and forms of socio-political organization. Along with basic knowledge of the period, students learn skills that pertain to analysis of world history in the premodern era.

HIS 220/World History II
(spring semester)

An introduction to the history of human societies from 1500 to the present. Attention is given to major forces that have propelled social change in the early modern and modern periods, with an emphasis on encounters among the world’s major societies including: the impact of slavery and industrial capitalism; European dominance and resistance; changing forms of class, gender, and race relations; and globalization. Along with basic knowledge of the period, students learn skills that pertain to analysis of world history in the modern era.

HIS 230/The United States in World History
(spring semester)

An introduction to the United States in world history from the 17th century to the present. The course deals with major forces in American development with an emphasis on encounters among Amerindians, Africans, Europeans, and Asians that created a distinct society linked to an increasingly interdependent world. Along with basic knowledge of the period, students learn skills that pertain to analysis of one major society interacting with others over time.

</table>
HIS 308/Late Antiquity
(periodically)
Tracing the breakdown of Mediterranean unity and the emergence of the multicultural-religious world of the 5th to 10th centuries as the European, West Asian, and North African hinterlands interact.

HIS 309/Ancient Near East
(periodically)
A survey of the civilizations of Mesopotamia, Egypt, Asia Minor, Syria, Palestine, Phoenicia, Assyria, and Persia. The course will focus on critical elements such as religion, writing and literature, agriculture and trade, weaponry and warfare, government, and advances in knowledge. Special attention will be given to the role of archaeology in understanding ancient history.

HIS 311/Rome and the Barbarians in the Early Middle Ages
(periodically)
The first in a two-course sequence. HIS 311 examines western Eurasia and the Mediterranean from the third to the ninth century C.E. Topics include the “fall” of Rome; the impact of contacts between Roman and “barbarian” populations (Huns, Vandals, Goths, etc.); barbarian society and culture; artistic developments; relations among Christians, Jews, Muslims, and pagans. Attention is drawn to marginal social groups (e.g., the poor and women) as well as the dominant male elites.

HIS 312/Medieval Culture and Society
(periodically)
The second in a two-course sequence. HIS 312 examines the transformation of western Eurasia and the Mediterranean in the ninth through 15th centuries C.E. Topics include the evolution of European social, political, religious, and cultural institutions; artistic developments; the Vikings; the Crusades; European travel to Africa, eastern Asia, the New World; the Black Death. Attention is drawn to marginal social groups (e.g. the poor and women) as well as the dominant male elites.

HIS 313/Medieval Christianity
(periodically)
The second of a two-course sequence, following HIS 305, Christianity from Jesus to Charlemagne. HIS 313 investigates the transformation of Christian culture and institutions, in western Eurasia and the Mediterranean, from the eighth century C.E. to the end of the Middle Ages. Topics include the growth of papal power; relations between church and state; Christian relations with non-Christian populations; the cult of saints; the Crusades; mysticism. Attention is given to Christianity’s impact on marginal groups such as the poor, women, children, Jews, and homosexuals.

HIS 314/Medieval Women
(periodically)
An examination of the changing situations of European women from late Antiquity to the Renaissance, a period when Europe changed from a unified, polytheistic society focused on the Mediterranean to a group of incipient nation-states, overwhelmingly Christian, characterized by a rise in urbanism, by looser social bonds, and by the need to respond to the challenges presented by Islam in the Middle East. Explores how the social, political, and legal structures that evolved in this period affected European women’s lives and relations between the sexes.
History-9

HIS 315/Early Russia to 1584
1 course unit
(periodically)
This course examines the history of early Russia from the formation of the first medieval states in eastern Europe beginning in ca. 500 C.E., through the Kievan Rus’ (ca. 850–1240), Mongol-Appanage (ca. 1240–1380), and early Muscovite (ca. 1380–1500) eras to the death of Ivan the Terrible in 1584.

HIS 316/Topics in Early Modern or Modern European History
1 course unit
(periodically)
Focuses on differing topics of historical significance having to do with Early Modern or Modern European history. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic changes. May fulfill departmental distribution requirements.

HIS 317/Europe in the Early Modern Period
1 course unit
(periodically)
An examination of European history from the 15th through the 18th centuries. Cultural and social history will be emphasized.

HIS 318/Early Modern European Expansion
1 course unit
(periodically)
Investigates the relationship between the European and non-European World in the classical and medieval periods. Emphasis on the medieval expansion of Europe, the development of geographic knowledge, crusading and the beginnings of Europe’s overseas expansion.

HIS 319/The Hapsburg and Ottoman Empires
1 course unit
(periodically)
An examination of the politics, cultures, and conflicts of two dynastic polities: the Catholic Hapsburgs and the Muslim Ottomans during the 16th and 17th centuries.

HIS 320/19th Century Europe
1 course unit
(periodically)

HIS 321/20th Century Europe
1 course unit
(periodically)
Examines European history since the First World War, focusing on the political, economic, social and cultural developments brought on by the World Wars, the Cold War, and the creation of the European Union.

HIS 322/Europe’s Imperial Era
1 course unit
(periodically)
Examines the so-called “Neo-Imperialism” of the 19th and 20th centuries. Emphasis on the cultural foundations of European domination.

HIS 323/East-Central Europe
1 course unit
(periodically)
A political and cultural examination of “the other Europe,” the small states bordered by Germany and Russia. Topics include the emergence of nation-states, world war and genocide, the rise and fall of Communism, and ethnic tension in the region.
History-10

HIS 324/Women in Eastern Europe 1848–present 1 course unit
(same as WGS 310 and HON 337)
(periodically)
This course will focus on women’s history in the region to understand how the dual forces of nationalism and communism were largely constructed around gendered concerns such as reproduction, family structure, and access to power.

HIS 325/Germany Since Unification 1 course unit
(periodically)
An examination of German history from Unification in 1871 through Reunification in 1990. Emphasis on the development of German nationalism and imperialism; the World Wars and the Holocaust; postwar division and reconstruction; and the cultural trends of each period.

HIS 327/European Social History Since 1789 1 course unit
(same as WGS 327)
(periodically)
An examination of the social changes that have occurred in Europe since the French Revolution. Topics include the history of families, gender roles, class divisions, racial ideologies, religion, work, and leisure.

HIS 332/Topics in Asian or Middle Eastern History 1 course unit
(periodically)
Focuses on differing topics of historical significance having to do with Eurasia and the Middle East. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic changes. May fulfill departmental distribution requirements.

HIS 333/Early Chinese History 1 course unit
(periodically)
A history of China from its origins until the 17\textsuperscript{th} century.

(periodically)
The course will examine the social, political, and economic development of modern Japan from 1800 to the present.

HIS 336/Late Imperial China 1 course unit
(periodically)
A history of China from the 17\textsuperscript{th} century to the early 20\textsuperscript{th} century.

HIS 337/20\textsuperscript{th} Century China 1 course unit
(periodically)
The course will examine Chinese history from 1911 to the present, focusing on social and political movements.
HIS 338/Indian Civilization 1 course unit
(periodically)
Historical development of South Asia from the third millennium B.C.E. to the 10th century C.E.

HIS 339/History of Modern India 1 course unit
(periodically)
Formation of modern India nation state, from the Delhi Sultanate (13th century C.E.) to the present.

HIS 340/Southeast Asia Since 1500 1 course unit
(periodically)
This course surveys the history of Southeast Asia from the period shortly before the arrival of Europeans to the present. The course will consider both regional and national issues.

HIS 341/Islamic History from Muhammad to the Ottomans 1 course unit
(periodically)
Focuses on the development of social, political, and religious institutions in Islamic societies from Muhammad up to the Ottoman Empire. Special attention will be placed on understanding the development of political systems, the military-patronage state, the relationship between religion and politics, and the problem of political legitimacy in the medieval period.

HIS 342/Modern Middle East 1 course unit
(periodically)
An introduction to the history of the modern Middle East. The first half of the course focuses on the social, religious, and political foundations of the modern states of the Middle East, the impact of the West on the development of nationalism, and the colonial experience. The second half of the course examines the post-colonial experience and the character of the modern Middle Eastern states with special attention paid to contemporary political and social issues in a local as well as international context.

HIS 343/History of Central Eurasia 1 course unit
(periodically)
An examination of the role of the Central Asian peoples, particularly the Turks and Mongols, in the historical evolution of China, Russia, and the Islamic world from the 13th century to the present day.

HIS 344/Politics and Religion in the Middle East 1 course unit
(periodically)
Investigation of the relationship between politics and religion in the Middle East. Special attention will be paid to comparative issues involved in the development of Islamic ideologies, the role of Islam in state formation, and the development of intellectual and politico-religious movements from the seventh century to the present.

HIS 347/Siberia 1 course unit
(periodically)
The course covers the history of Siberia from the initial human settlement of this part of Inner Eurasia in the Ice Age to the modern period. Specific emphases will be given to the diverse cultures, economies, and religions of the Native Siberian peoples and their contacts with the outside world. About half of the course will examine the fate of the indigenous inhabitants of Siberia after their incorporation into the Russian state.
HIS 348/Imperial Russia, 1584–1917 1 course unit
(periodically)
Examines the history of the Russian state as it was transformed from the European Grand Principality of Muscovy to the trans-Eurasian Russian Empire. Among the key issues considered in this course are: the territorial expansion of Russia, the development and growth of bureaucracy and autocracy, the entrenchment of serfdom as an institution, Russia’s attempts to reform and modernize, and the many fates of Russia’s national minorities.

HIS 349/The Soviet Union, 1917–1991 1 course unit
(periodically)
This course traces the history of the Soviet Union from last years of the old tsarist regime and the developments that led to the Russian Revolution of 1917, through the Russian Civil War, the Stalin era and World War II, the Cold War, to the collapse of the U.S.S.R. in 1991.

HIS 350/Topics in African or Latin American History 1 course unit
(periodically)
Focuses on differing topics of historical significance having to do with African or Latin American history. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic changes. May fulfill departmental distribution requirements.

HIS 351/Ancient and Medieval Africa 1 course unit
(same as AAS 351)
(periodically)
This introductory course surveys ancient and medieval African history through the eyes of princesses, archaeologists, peasants, religious leaders, storytellers, and women. While the course reconstructs the great civilizations of ancient Africa—Egypt, Zimbabwe, Mali, and others—it is not primarily focused on kings and leaders. Rather, the course explore how ordinary Africans ate, relaxed, worshiped, and organized their personal and political lives.

HIS 352/Colonial and Modern Africa 1 course unit
(same as AAS 352)
(periodically)
This course explores African history from 1800 up to the present. Using case studies, it will examine how wide-ranging social, political, and economic processes—the slave trade, colonial rule, African nationalism, independence, and new understandings of women’s rights—changed local people’s lives.

HIS 353/African History in Film, Literature, and Music 1 course unit
(periodically)
Explores the ways that African novelists, musicians, and filmmakers have memorialized Africa’s past. In the films of Mweze Ngangura, in the songs of Lomwe plantation workers, in the creative writing of African novelists, students will learn how trained artists and ordinary people alike use the arts to think through history. How art comments on political relations in the present is also an enduring theme.

HIS 354/South African History 1 course unit
(periodically)
This survey course explores the politics of culture in colonial-era and apartheid South Africa. It begins by studying the legal, religious, sexual and political history of colonialism, then delves into the history of African popular culture. How miners, beer brewers, women, musicians, gangsters, and journalists created cultures of resistance is an enduring theme. In the second half of the semester, students will create research papers about topics in South African history.
History-13

HIS 355/East African History
(1 course unit)
East Africa is probably the most politically, ecologically, and religiously diverse place on earth. This topical course compares different East African histories. It explores three thematic questions: 1) Faced with East Africa’s inherent diversity of thought, how did African innovators create wider political communities? 2) How far did Arab elites dominate political life in the towns along the Indian Ocean coast, and how did African slaves, workmen, and other non-elites challenge their Arab overlords? 3) How did rural peasant communities reformulate their own political thought to deal with a changing world? Students will create research papers about topics in East African history.

HIS 356/State and Slavery in West Africa
(1 course unit)
This topical course studies West African history through the lens of slavery. It studies the impact of the Atlantic slave trade on African political life during the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries. It also explores indigenous forms of inequality, documenting how African social and political hierarchies were transformed out of their interaction with the Atlantic commerce.

HIS 357/Religion and Politics in Africa
(1 course unit)
This course explores aspects of Africa’s religious and political history. Topics include: Africans and the making of African Christianity; African Traditional Religion and its history; sorcery and political critique in post-colonial Africa; and Islam in Africa. Students will create research papers about Africa’s history of religion.

HIS 358/Colonial Latin America
(1 course unit)
Covers from the Spanish and Portuguese conquests of the 16th century through to the achievement of Latin American independence in the early 19th century.

HIS 359/Modern Latin America
(1 course unit)
Social, economic, cultural and political history of Latin America during the past two centuries.

HIS 361/History of Mexico
(1 course unit)
A concise survey of Indian Mexico and the Spanish legacy followed by an intensive study of Mexico’s quest for independence—political, economic, and cultural—with particular attention to the Revolution of 1910–1920.

HIS 364/History of the Caribbean
(1 course unit)
This course takes a long historical, sociological, economic, and political view of the Caribbean Basin. It examines the origins of the region as a unique cultural and political space defined by the interplay between the indigenous inhabitants, African Slaves, Asian immigrants, European empires (Spanish, Dutch, French, and English), and American hegemony. The course explains the Caribbean Basin as a dynamic historical space defined by the diversity of its inhabitants, tensions between cultures, relationship to its past, and efforts to fit into an expanding culture of global capitalism.

HIS 365/Topics in North American and United States History 1 course unit (periodically)
Focuses on differing topics of historical significance having to do with North America and the United States. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic changes. May fulfill departmental distribution requirements.

HIS 366/Europeans and Indians 1 course unit (periodically)
