

Electronic Text Internet Sites: A Resource Guide

Audible.com

www.audible.com

Audible® (www.audible.com®) is the Internet's leading premium spoken audio source. Content from Audible is downloaded and played back on personal computers, CDs, or AudibleReady computer-based mobile devices. Audible has more than 70,000 hours of audio programs from more than 200 content partners that include leading audiobook publishers, broadcasters, entertainers, magazine and newspaper publishers, and business information providers.

Bookshare.org

www.bookshare.org

Bookshare.org is an online community that enables people with visual and other print disabilities to legally share scanned books. Bookshare.org takes advantage of a special exemption in the U.S. copyright law that permits the reproduction of publications into specialized formats for individuals with disabilities.

eBooks.com

<http://usa2.ebooks.com/>

eBooks.com aims to be the pre-eminent eBookstore on the Internet, selling whole books, chapters and pages of books online from the world's leading publishers. eBooks can be purchased and downloaded immediately by customers anywhere in the world at prices that are cheaper than printed books, with no postal charges and no waiting for delivery. eBooks.com provides access to reliable, authorized, published content that has been through the rigorous editorial processes of traditional book publishing and then carefully transcribed into eBook format.

The Electronic Text Center at the University of Virginia

<http://etext.lib.virginia.edu>

The Electronic Text Center's holdings include approximately 70,000 on-and off-line humanities texts in twelve languages, with more than 350,000 related images. 1,600 of these are available for the Microsoft Reader and Palm devices, including classic British and American fiction, major authors, children's literature, American history, Shakespeare, African-American documents, the Bible, and much more.

The English Server

<http://eserver.org>

The EServer, formerly at Carnegie Mellon and the University of Washington, is now based at Iowa State University. It contains over 32,419 works in 45 collections on such diverse topics as contemporary art, race, Internet studies, sexuality, drama, design, gender studies, accessible publishing and current political and social issues.

The Internet Public Library

www.ipl.org

The IPL Online Texts Collection housed at the University of Michigan contains over 19,000 titles including various online books, stories, essays, poems, articles, dramas, letters and speeches that are freely available over the internet. They can be browsed by author, by title, or by Dewey Decimal Classification.

NetLibrary

<http://www.netlibrary.com/>

NetLibrary provides access to your library's eContent collection. eContent is the digital version of books, journals, and database content. You can access your library's eContent 24 hours a days, seven days a week.

The On-line Books Page

<http://digital.library.upenn.edu/books>

The On-line Books Page contains an index of thousands of online books freely readable on the internet, pointers to significant directories and archives of online texts, special exhibits of particularly interesting classes of online books, and information on how readers can help support the growth of online books

Project Bartleby

<http://bartleby.com>

A comprehensive, searchable database of reference, verse, fiction, nonfiction and classic literature, all available on the internet. Visitors can access informative summaries of each book, as well as concise biographies, complete with pictures of each author featured in the online library. Enhanced navigational tools and extensive cross-referencing between works make it easy for users to locate specific passages and references.

Project Gutenberg

www.Gutenberg.net

Finds public domain copies of books and publishes them on the internet. Project Gutenberg e-texts are made available in "Plain Vanilla ASCII" format.

Project Libellus

www.etext.org

Provides electronic ASCII versions of texts without judging their content. Included are electronic periodicals, political zines, essays, and home pages of political groups, publications of amateur authors, mainstream and offbeat religious texts, as well as poetry.

The Tech Classics Archive

<http://classics.mit.edu>

Select from a list of 441 works of classical literature by 59 different authors, including user-driven commentary and "reader's choice" Web sites. Mainly Greco-Roman works (some Chinese and Persian), all in English translation.

Texas Text Exchange

<http://tte.tamu.edu>

The Texas Text Exchange (TTE) is a consortium of disability service providers who share electronic texts (e-texts) with each other. This 440 volume library of e-text is used exclusively to accommodate qualified students with disabilities. The library is administered by Adaptive Technology Services at Texas A&M University.