

SPACE QUOTA RESTORATION FOR BEAST ACCOUNTS
(READ CAREFULLY, AS YOU WILL LOSE EMAIL DATA IF COMPLETED)

Periodically, users call into the Helpdesk stating that their Beast account is over the TCNJ allocated quota of space. The following is a technique used by the Helpdesk to free up space by DELETING larger files. If you need assistance with these directions, please call the Helpdesk at x2660.

This script is to reduce disk usage of a person whom is over their UNIX quota.
It will empty your trash and remove large files found in their home directory.

To clean out an over quota account, run the following command at the beast prompt:

`/opt/local/packages/misc/overquota.pl`

If your problem still persists, please contact the Helpdesk at x2660.
